

Economic Institutions & why they matter

Join our WEBINAR

Why are some nations poor while others are prosperous?

What are “economic institutions,” and how do they shape the standard of living and the opportunities available in different countries? Could economic institutions be the key to a nation’s success?

In this webinar, Signè Thomas from the Gus A. Stavros Center for the Advancement of Free Enterprise and Economic Education at Florida State University will delve into what makes for sound economic institutions, and how they impact the well-being of people around the globe.

- 👤 This webinar is designed for high school and college students but registration is open to anyone.

Thursday, 4/23/20 2-3pm EST

About the Speaker

Signè Thomas is the Project Director for the Stavros Center for the Advancement of Free Enterprise and Economic Education at Florida State University (FSU). She teaches economics and is a Research Associate for the DeVoe Moore Center at FSU. She is known as a strong advocate for economic freedom and veterans.

She enjoys advancing economic freedom and economic literacy through educational program implementation, textbook and curriculum content development, teaching, event planning, and organizational growth.

FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY
GUS A. STAVROS CENTER for ECONOMIC EDUCATION

Register now!

People who stay during the entire program and complete the pre- and post-survey will receive a certificate and free bonus content from Signè.

Who is FEE?

FEE is a 501 (c)(3) educational nonprofit founded in 1946 to captivate and inspire students with sound economic principles and the importance of strong character, personal responsibility, and an entrepreneurial mindset.

